CITY CHURCHES WALK

Saturday 10 July – 10.00 am-4.00 pm

St Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe and St James Garlickhythe will be participating in this year's Friends of the City Churches' Annual City Churches Walk, which is being held this year as an extension to the City of London Festival.

Churches around the City will be open to receive tourists and City workers as well as the guided walks, and to attract people who cannot easily visit the City during the week and who may not know the City churches at all.

The Annual City Churches Walks are effectively the City churches' own Open Days. As a fund-raising event for the Friends of the City Churches, volunteers from the City of London Guide Lecturers' Association (the 'City Guides') lead a number of walking tours, each of which aims to visit three churches, and stop by a number of others en route.

The walks depart around 10.30 am and 1.30 pm from the reception church, St Mary Aldermary (Cannon Street at Bow Lane), and usually last about 90 minutes. There are typically eight to ten itineraries, each visiting a different set of churches. Thus, the first church on a given route is usually visited within a few minutes' of the group's departure from St Mary Aldermary, the second about half-an-hour later, and the third about half-an-hour after that. The guided visits usually last 15 to 20 minutes within the church, to allow for a comfortable pace and time to look at other churches and landmarks en route.

'SUPPER AT EMMAUS' BY CARAVAGGIO
 PAINTED 1601 (NATIONAL GALLERY, LONDON)

18th July commemorates the 400th anniversary of the death of Michelangelo Merisi de Caravaggio. This painting shows the scene in Luke 24.30-31. Two of Jesus's disciples were walking to Emmaus after the Crucifixion when the resurrected Jesus drew near and went with them, but they did not recognize Him. The painting depicts the moment of recognition of the resurrected Christ by the two surprised disciples as He takes bread, blesses it and breaks it, and gives it to them (the innkeeper witnesses the event).

THE ENGLISH CHAMBER CHOIR

The English Chamber Choir, based at St Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe since 1988, has for many years been associated with the performance of music composed for the Orthodox tradition. As its conductor, Guy Protheroe, was also director of The Byzantine Festival in London (of which Bishop Chartres was a Patron) this was a natural extension of its repertoire and it has commissioned works from and given many performances of music by leading contemporary composers including John Tavener, Ivan Moody, Mikis Theodorakis and the Greek-Canadian Christos Hatzis. These include two performances in St Paul's Cathedral, the Great Hall of Birmingham University, the International Byzantine Congress at King's College London, the Greek Cathedral of Aghia Sophia in Moscow Road, W2, the Megaron Concert Hall in Athens and the Cathedral of Plovdiv in Bulgaria.

In 1998 the Choir presented a programme entitled 'The Byzantine Legacy', which was subsequently issued on CD by Sony. This was an anthology which presented an overview of music written for the Orthodox rite in a harmonic style – as opposed to the Byzantine chant which has been handed down since the first days of Christianity. It included three pieces each from Rachmaninov's well-known 'Vespers' and Tchaikovsky's 'Liturgy of St John Chrysostom'. Both these composers were heavily influenced by their study of the chant as it had developed in Russia, but combined such melodies with their own richly romantic musical language.

The Choir will be presenting the Tchaikovsky Liturgy complete in some concert performances later in the autumn. Meanwhile, we thought that, while we have this wonderful music in rehearsal, it would present a unique opportunity to sing it in a liturgical setting. St Andrew's has a regular Thursday evening act of worship and is also home to the St Gregorios Indian Orthodox Community on Sunday mornings. A Eucharist will be celebrated in English, using the Anglican rite, and Tchaikovsky's music (sung in Old Church Slavonic) will be distributed throughout the service. While acknowledging particular theological variations (the 'Filioque' springs to mind) between the Churches of East and West, the basic sequence of re-enacting the Last Supper underpins the Liturgies of them both.

Tchaikovsky's musical setting lasts about 35 minutes. It will therefore result in a slightly more extended service than that usually held on a Thursday evening. However, it is hoped that for many it will enhance their regular act of worship, while others can also come along and enjoy the music. Afterwards there will be refreshments, which will be of a distinctly Slavic flavour. We do hope that will come and join us.

NEW ORGAN

St Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe is very pleased to announce that a Faculty has been granted for the installation of a new Makin electronic (digital) organ with a 3-manual drawstop console, speakers and mobile plinth, and for the restoration of the Snetzler Chamber Organ. The new organ will be installed on 27 May.

FROM THE RECTOR

Jesus promises that after his Ascension he will send the Holy Spirit to strengthen and console his disciples and to lead them into the truth. We take the Holy Spirit too much for granted: he is God working invisibly in each Christian person and easy to overlook.

There are other important things in life which we also take for granted. Take health, for example. We generally take it for granted until something goes wrong. It is rightly said that we only appreciate our health when we lose it. When our eyesight or hearing are functioning properly we use them without a thought. But if either sight or hearing deteriorates, if the tragedies of blindness or deafness face us, then we think about our sight and hearing as distinct from simply using them automatically.

So, too, our capacity for thought. Our daily activities involve thinking all the time – every moment of our lives involves thought, making decisions, interpreting the world around us. But we also take thought for granted, and it is only when something goes wrong, as in loss of memory or mental breakdown, that we realize that thinking isn't just automatic. It is God's gift. Life itself we also take for granted, and yet without it there can be no faculties of any kind, no thinking or hearing or seeing, no use of our senses at all.

Christians spend most of their time getting on with the job of trying to be Christians, trying to bear witness to Christ in the world, a world that often rejects and even punishes those who are Christ's witness. In coping with everyday life it is easy for Christians to overlook the fact that it is the Holy Spirit working in and through them that tells us all we know about Jesus and brings us to him. And so we easily ignore or miss the Spirit, because he never draws attention to himself, but only to Christ and to Christ's teaching and works. But we should not take the Holy Spirit for granted, just as we should not take our health and strength and our minds for granted. It is the Holy Spirit who enables us to become people characterised by sound reason and moderation, by love for each other and our neighbours, by generous hospitality and by using our gifts, varied as they are, in God's service, that 'He may in all things be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.'

The Revd Dr Alan Griffin
